

Description

[The main body of the page contains a large area of digital corruption and noise, rendering any text illegible.]

As far as height is concerned, 37.58 m. of the Roman building survived. Of them, 34.38 are hidden by the Neoclassical cover and the remaining 3.20 m are under the platform that was built in early 19th century and are easily visible from the excavation area. To this structure,

